WHAT EVERY BRIDE SHOULD KNOW ABOUT HER WEDDING NIGHT:

8 KEY INDICATORS

Many brides ask, "How will I know if I'm in for a good time on my wedding night?"

That's a stupid question.

All they have to do is learn the 8 Key Indicators of a Good Wedding Night.

The 8 Key Indicators of a Good Wedding Night

You know that you are going to have a good time on your wedding night if:

1. You walk into the bridal suite and trip over a case of condoms.
2. You sit on your husband's lap, then realize he is standing up.
3. Your husband asks if you want to play a "get acquainted" game called "The Convict and the Milk Maid."
4. You get a beautiful silk nightgown with fur around the hem. The note in the box says, "To keep your neck warm."

5. You discover that someone has added a pair of knee pads to your trousseau.
6. You ask your husband why he is taking so much time in the bathroom, and he says, "Because I'm doing my tongue exercises."
7. Two rough men appear at your bridal suite door carrying a glass slipper, a case of champagne, a tub of whipped cream, a large box marked, "Danger: Nuclear Vibrator," and six months of back copies of the magazine "German Shepherd Love."
8. You ask your husband why he is carrying a salami in his pajamas, and he says, "Salami? What salami?"

WHAT TO WEAR ON YOUR WEDDING NIGHT

WHAT TO NEVER WEAR ON YOUR WEDDING NIGHT

FIVE THINGS YOUR MOTHER NEVER TOLD YOU

The wedding night can be a beautiful, sensitive initiation into the arena of matrimonial bliss, or the devastating and humiliating near-disembowelment that has characterized wedding nights since the dawn of civilization. It all depends on how much you know.

Most brides blunder into their wedding nights thinking: a) that they already know it all, or b) they are about to learn it all.

That is not enough. To truly prepare for your wedding night, you need to know five very important things about men; things that women have spent generations learning; things that your mother never told you.

FIVE THINGS YOUR MOTHER NEVER TOLD YOU

Here are things about men you had better be prepared for unless you want your wedding night to be the most traumatic and unhappy experience of your life (not counting the time you found out where babies really come from).

- 1. Men are 2 percent after shave, 3 percent libido, and 95 percent body hair. And they shed like goats in rut. Don't be surprised if, after you've been married for seven minutes, your entire wardrobe is covered with your husband's body hair, and if there is hair all over the bathroom and all over the sheets. The only way to eliminate the problem is to make your groom sleep in a Hefty bag.

2. Men do not like to be touched after they've had an orgasm. It makes their skin crawl. Men like to curl up into a little ball and go to sleep after they've had an orgasm, then get up when you are sleeping and jump on you and start all over again. Anything you've ever read about men making love to a woman more than one time in a row is a lie.

3. Men like to think they are the first one. Even if they know they are not. They like to believe that, by some act of divine intervention, you have never done it with anyone else before. Lie to them and say it is so. Who could it hurt, even if you are in your third marriage?

4. Men want to believe that you sleep in the nude because they sleep in the nude. Men sleep in the nude because they think it is a turn-on; with most men, it is not. So if your new husband asks if you sleep in the nude, be coy and say, "I've never had any reason to before." That will make him feel special, until he sees you in your flannel nightgown on the next night.

5. Men expect their new wives to be both virgins and practiced in the art of exotic lovemaking. They especially like it if you know how to do things with pillows. Many a new bride has gotten her marriage off to a solid start by doing things with pillows on her wedding night. Many a new bride has gotten even on the second night by holding the pillows over her husband's face when he snores.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU'RE DISAPPOINTED

Sometimes it happens that your first encounter with your new groom is not, shall we say, all that you have read it is supposed to be. Maybe he's a little nervous; maybe he's a little drunk from the wedding; maybe he's a little drunk and a little nervous and a little suicidal.

And what happens is, he can't "perform."

How should you, as a new bride, handle the situation? As with anything, there are good things to do, and there are bad things to do.

GOOD THINGS TO DO

Many experts say there are several things you can do if your new husband is having problems performing:

- 1. Be a good sport about it. Say to him, "Don't worry about it, honey. We have the rest of our lives to be together."
- 2. Be kind and understanding. Soothe his brow and say, "There, there. Everything's going to be okay."
- 3. Be a trooper about it. Sigh quietly, cover him up, and watch him lovingly while he sleeps.

BAD THINGS TO DO

These same experts also say that there are several things you should never do if your husband is having problems performing. They say you should never:

- 1. Laugh sarcastically and say, "And for this I gave up a perfectly good Saturday night?"
- 2. Storm off to see "if the guy across the hall is busy."
- 3. Laugh scornfully and say, "I guess all the guys at the truck stop were right."

4. Snap angrily and say, "Well, hurry it up. I haven't got all night."
5. Drum your fingers impatiently on the nighttable and keep looking at your watch.
6. Mutter under your breath, "Wimp."

SHOULD YOUR MOTHER STAY IN THE ROOM WITH YOU: THE PROS AND CONS

There are two schools of thought on this subject: the pro-moms, and the anti-moms.

The pro-moms would have you believe that a girl's best friend is her mother, and that best friends stick together in times of need, and there is no greater time of need than when some strange man is chasing you around a bed with intent to make you a vessel for his lust.

The anti-moms would have you believe that you have to be crazy to have your mother with you on your wedding night for obvious reasons, not to mention how embarrassed you get when the subject of sex is brought up and your mom is in the room.

The pro-moms think it is a girl's duty to be considerate of her mother and not to hurt her feelings by telling her "No."

The anti-moms think only a dipstick would even bring the subject up.

The pro-moms want someone there to hold their hand if it hurts.

The anti-moms prefer to call their lawyer if it hurts.
But you're going to have to decide this for yourself; hey, you're a big girl now.

IS IT A GOOD IDEA TO WEAR PAJAMAS?

Let me put it this way. Wearing pajamas to bed on your wedding night is a better idea than wearing a blue serge suit to bed on your wedding night.

But it's not very cool.

What's cool is wearing silk socks to bed on your wedding night.

What's cool is wearing a black cashmere mask to bed on your wedding night.

What's cool is covering yourself with Cool Whip on your wedding night and saying to your new bride, "Ready for dessert?"

What's cool is wearing a cape of feathers to bed on your wedding night and crowing like a rooster every time there is something to crow about.

But pajamas? Frankly, I'd rather go to bed covered with peanut butter (also cool, if it's chunky).

WHAT TO NEVER WEAR ON YOUR WEDDING NIGHT

WHAT TO WEAR ON YOUR WEDDING NIGHT

HOW TO TELL IF YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE A GOOD TIME ON YOUR WEDDING NIGHT

Many grooms ask, "How can I tell if I'm going to have a good time on my wedding night?"

That's a stupid question.

All they have to do is watch for any of the 4 Golden Signs. If they see any of the Four Golden Signs, then they know that they are going to have a good time.

What Are The 4 Golden Signs?

If you see any of the following, then you have seen one of the four golden signs. If you see:

1. A belly dancing band setting up next to your bed, then you have seen one of the Four Golden Signs.
2. Your bride disappear into the bathroom with a bottle marked, "Atomic Aphrodisiac," then you have seen one of the Four Golden Signs.
3. People gathering in the hall outside your room, whispering, "Hey, you've gotta see this; I understand she's unbelievable," then you have seen one of the Four Golden Signs.
4. Steam rising off your bride's naked hips, then you have seen one of the Four Golden Signs.

WHAT TO DO IF SHE REFUSES TO COME OUT OF THE BATHROOM

Sometimes it will happen that the bride will lose her nerve at the last minute and will lock herself in the bathroom until she thinks you have gone to sleep. (Later, when you have been married for a while, this will become so commonplace that it will not bother you anymore.)

Should you try to talk her out of the bathroom, or should you pretend that you have gone to sleep, then jump her when she comes to bed?

Some grooms prefer to talk, saying reassuring things through the bathroom door, making stupid promises that they are never going to be able to keep ("I'll never love anyone else," or "Gentle? Of course I'm going to be gentle") and wondering privately why this is happening to them.

I personally think talking is a waste of energy. You should lie down and conserve your energy for when she comes out of the bathroom and you jump her. Some of those brides are small, but wiry.

Later, when she locks herself back in the bathroom, you can use the free time to go through the wedding gifts looking for cash.

When she comes out of the bathroom and you jump her.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU CALL HER BY SOMEONE ELSE'S NAME

Look, it happens sometimes. You will be locked in a passionate embrace, and, lunging toward ecstasy, will scream out, "Oh, Babette, I love you." Needless to say, this will halt your wife, Thelma, in mid-lunge, and you will have some heavy explaining to do.

The most important thing is not to panic. Run for your life, yes. But panic, no. Listen to the old master. There are five specific solutions to this specific problem.

Five Specific Solutions

In this specific situation, there are five specific things which grooms have been doing since the very dawn of time. Unfortunately, only two of them work, but you may get lucky. You can always:

1. Hope she didn't hear you.
2. Pretend you didn't say it.
3. Simply say, "I owe you one."
4. Simply say, "Just kidding."
5. Try changing the subject.

WHAT IF HE WANTS TO TAKE PICTURES:

Three Memorable Wedding Night Poses

Sometimes grooms get sentimental and decide that they want to have a picture of you on your wedding night so that they can remember it forever and ever.

This is very touching (until later, when you realize they only want the picture to show their buddies what a terrific body you have), and you will probably want to make him happy by posing.

But what pose to take? As photo amateurs, you will probably waste precious hours of your wedding night trying different poses till you get the one that is best.

Let me save you some time. Here are three wedding night poses you can use that will give you a lasting memory you will never erase.

HOW TO HANDLE ALL THE GAWKING STARES THE NEXT MORNING AT BREAKFAST

Usually, the worst part of the honeymoon comes at breakfast following your wedding night when you walk into the hotel restaurant and all the people turn around to stare at you as if to say, "We know what you've been doing."

Many a bride has spent that breakfast brushing tears off her poached eggs, while grooms pretend not to notice and eat like fullbacks instead.

This is a very delicate situation, and unless you know how to defuse it, it can explode in your face, leaving you with deep and lasting emotional scars.

How To Defuse It

1. Pretend it is not happening.
2. Pretend that it is happening but that you do not care.
3. Pretend that you and your husband have been married for 18 years, not 18 hours, and that all the screaming, panting, groaning and squealing coming from your room all night was nothing unusual.

How To Just Make It Worse

Anything else you do is only going to make it worse. You may think that it will help, but it will not help if you:

1. Go from table to table claiming, "Nothing happened, really. We just stayed up all night and talked."
2. Go from table to table claiming, "It's all right. We're married. See the ring."
3. Stand up on your table and scream, "Yes, yes, we did it! And it was great! Now are you happy?"
